If the Republicans run a man for Governor he ought to be named Walker.

The present Mayor of New York is Low now; but he'll be knocked higher than a kite in November.

The Durham Herald makes Mr. Glenn the thirteenth candidate for Governor. How so, old man? We can't count up more than 6½ or 7 now in the field.

General Simon Bolivar Buckner will not add much to his standing among Democrats by taking the stump for the Republican candidate for Governor of Kentucky, albeit the candidate is his son-in-law.

It is said that Booker Washington now advocates the removal of the negroes from the congested black belts of the South to the regions of the North and West. Wonder if Booker would head the column if destined for Evansville, Indiana, or Waterloo, Iowa.

The men who bet on the result of the municipal elections in New York are actively at work, and thus far McClellan has the call for Mayor, the odds being 10 to 7 in his favor. John R. Considine, the noted sporting man, has $100,000 he is auxious to place on "Little Mac" at 10 to 8.

The Dispatch made its appearance yesterday in an enlarged form, being now a seven column paper. It is neatly printed and as a news gatherer is a success. The enlargement is an evidence of deserved prosperity, which we note with pleasure.

Occasionally the Richmond editors become reminiscent and talk about "Richmond in the olden time." Yet there is, probably, not a man now connected with the press there who can recall the time when the city had but two police officers on day duty, "Old Byrd Page" and "Old Clem. White," as the mischievous boys called them. But George Canning Wilde knows what we are talking about, if he has not "crossed over the river:"

John D. Rockefeller says his religion is what made him. He says there are many men who hunt a little, fish a little, drink whiskey a little and attain only a little success in life, all for the lack of a little religion. The burden of others' woes is weighing so heavily upon Mr. Rockefeller that he says he is thinking about going on the lecture platform and making religious talks.—Made him what? A multi-millionaire? Anyhow, his "religious talks" will doubtless be of Standard quality.

THEATRE EVENT OF SEASON.

Marie Wainwright in Revival of Popular Shakespearean Comedy at Academy Next Tuesday Evening.

The forthcoming appearance here of Miss Marie Wainright at the Academy next Tuesday night in a revival of the splendid Shakespearean comedy, "Twelfth Night," has overshadowed all other events theatrical for the present. Mr. Hugh A. Grady, representing the company featuring Miss Wainwright, was here yesterday and perfected all arrangements with the managers of the local playhouse for the coming of the big attraction. The prices down stairs will be at an advance to only $1.50 for all seats, except the last four rows which will be $1. The box sheet opens Saturday morning at 8 o'clock and all indications point to a rush.

Miss Wainwright will appear in "Twelfth Night" in her world famous impersonation of Viola, the role being that of the disguised page who turns the heads of the titled lovers of Illyria without regard to sex and paves the way for a very advantageous alliance for the long missing brother who was her double, while herself laying seige to the heart of the duke she admires.

Criticisms and reports from all cities in which Miss Wainwright has appeared are unanimously eulogistic. Some dwell upon the charming art of the actress, her exceeding beauty, and her perfect symmetry of form. Others praise the production from a scenic standpoint, extolling the many beautiful scenic pictures. Still others proclaim it to be the most complete and perfect revival, taken as a whole, for its ensemble work, its scenery, its light effects and costuming. Shakespeare's comedy, "Twelfth Night," more so than any of his other plays, requires a star cast for its proper interpretation and Manager Jules Murry has it. Every member of the cast is a bright star.

ALONG THE WHARF.

Steamers Delayed by the Storm Sailed Yesterday Morning and Evening.

TWO OTHER TRAMPS HERE.

News of River Steamboats—"Tar Heel" Afloat and Now On Ways Here. "Johnson" Will Not Go Permanently On the Cape Fear.

The cotton fleet in port was augmented yesterday by the arrival of two other steamers, however, of smaller tonnage than usual. The British tramp "Hesleyside," 1,687 tons, Capt. Bedlington, arrived Sunday from West Hartlepool and the British steamer "Falcon," 1,349 tons, Capt. Ross, arrived yesterday from New York. Both are consigned to Messrs. Alexander Sprunt & Son. The only vessel at the compress docks prior to the above arrivals, was the "Candleshoe," The "Hoxbey," which is also here for cotton cargo, was taking a supply of coal from the A. C. L. chute.

The Wilmington and Fayetteville steamer "Tar Heel" which has been on the bottom, just above Elizabethtown, having jammed a hole in her hull about two weeks ago, was raised Saturday and arrived here under her own steam yesterday morning. She went immediately on the ways at Skinner's and will be permanently repaired. The "Hurt," of the same line, cleared early last night for points up the Cape Fear river as far as the stage of water will admit of navigation.

The river steamer "A. J. Johnson" arrived yesterday from Elizabethtown and cleared in the afternoon for the return trip up the Cape Fear river, expecting to go as far as Cedar Creek. Mr. W. J. Meredith, agent of the "Johnson" in Wilmington, says there is no truth in the report that the boat will be regularly transferred to the Cape Fear run. She is now making a trip or two up that stream, but will shortly return to the Black River line.

Inward and outward bound vessels to and from this port appear to have suffered none by the terrific storm which swept along the coast the closing days of last week. Several schooners passed out at Southport the evening before the storm, but marine men say they probably put to sea and escaped all danger.

British steamers "Baron Dalmeny" and "Baron Balfour," hence for Bremen with cargoes of cotton, which were delayed here a couple of days on account of the storm, passed out at Southport at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The Clyde liner "Navahoe" sailed early yesterday afternoon. She was delayed in port on account of the bad weather, not being able to complete her cargo before yesterday morning. She passed out at Southport at 6 P. M.

Spirts turpentine was quoted firm at 56½c. on the local market yesterday; receipts only 17 casks. Cotton remained unchanged with receipts of 2,280 bales, against 3,689 same day last year.

MARVEL IN TELEPHONY.

Long Distance Composite System Installed Between Wilmington and Florence.

One of the "composite systems" of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., has recently been put in operation between the Coast Line general offices in this city and the junction office of the company in Florence, the work having been done by Mr. D. C. Marshall, the A. C. L's. expert electrician. Strange to say, the communication is established on a "quad" wire over which at one and the same time four telegraph instruments may be hard at work and a conversation going on between persons at each end of the same wire, without the slightest confusion or interruption. If the Wilmington-Florence test over the "quad" wire proves satisfactory it may not be improbable that the telephonic system will be put in operation between important points all over the system.

Attracted Wide Attention.

The prize essay recently written by President J. A. Taylor, of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, upon the subject of "Credit Insurance" has attracted widespread attention from all over the financial world. Through a friend of Mr. Taylor it was learned yesterday that the Scientific American, the leading publication of its kind in the world, had written to Mr. Taylor for permission to reproduce the excellent articles in the Scientific American Encyclopædia. The request is a decided compliment to Mr. Taylor, the influential body of which he has the honor to be president, and the city of Wilmington commercially.

Residence Entered.

While members of the family were at church Sunday night, the residence of Mrs. Annie W. Baker, No. 15 North Fifth street, was entered by a sneak thief, who ransacked everything in the house. Several trunks were broken open and rifled; a number of shirts and other clothing belonging to Mr. C. F. Baker, with $7.50 belonging to another member of the family, having been stolen. Entrance was gained through a window. The robbery was reported at the police station.

OHIO CAPITALISTS PROSPECTING HERE.

Party of Influential Northern Men, Forming Wealthy Syndicate, Want to Buy East Carolina Lands.

Through the instrumentality of Col. John Moores, of Findlay, Ohio, travelling passenger agent of the Ohio Central Lines, and Mr. J. J. Wolfenden, of Newbern, a party of Ohio capitalists have been in this section of the State since last Thursday looking over timber lands with the view of purchasing a large body of it, upon which it is proposed to locate a wood manufacturing plant of gigantic proportions and ultimately establish upon it a colony of Northerners, such as have recently removed thither and made a garden spot out of hitherto barren wastes in Columbus county. Besides Col. Moores and Mr. Wolfenden, those in the party are Mr. Guy Tippin, a wealthy man of Defiance, Ohio, and Messrs. Jno. A. Ospacher, Gid. Blanchard and C. P. Harley, prominent bankers of the same city. They are not only men of means and experience, but are understood to be backed by a Toledo people, forming a wealthy syndicate, in which all of them and Col. Moores own large blocks of stock.

The party arrived last evening from Kerr, Sampson county, on the A. & A. railroad, and are guests at The Orton. Messrs. Tippin, Ospacher, Blanchard and Harley will return to their Ohio homes to-day but Colonel Moores and Mr. Wolfenden will be here several days longer. Of course, none of the gentlemen would give out anything definite before the consummation of their plans, but their location in any community would be worth thousands in the way of development. They prospected through a large area of territory in the neighborhood of Kerr, but had decided upon nothing when a reporter of this paper saw Col. Moores at The Orton last evening.

The plant which the gentlemen propose to locate will consume largely gum and veneering timber out of which will be manufactured fruit and truck crates, boxes, barrels, etc. Only a finished product will be turned out, thus bringing to the country and to themselves all there is in the timber which is consumed. Col. Moores is a gentleman of wide travel and appears to be well pleased with the country in this section of North Carolina and its possibilities for development.

MR. H. W. MASON DEAD.

Well Known Citizen of First Ward Passed Away Sunday—The Funeral.

Mr. H. W. Mason after a long and severe illness of two months passed away at 7 o'clock Sunday morning at the home of his son-in-law, Mr. J. H. Mintz, 709 North Third street. He was in his 80th year. He leaves to mourn their loss a devoted wife and six children, viz: Messrs. D. W., T. A. and L. L. Mason and Mrs. J. H. Mintz, of this city; Mr. W. C. Mason, of Bluefield, W. Va., and Mr. G. A. Mason, of Fayetteville. He also leaves a number of grand children among whom are Mrs. T. W. Weaver and Miss Lottie L. Mason, of this city, and Mr. H. R. Mason, of Chicago, Ill.

The funeral was conducted yesterday at 3 P. M., by Rev. Judson L. Vipperman and Rev. Geo. B. Webster. The interment was in Bellevue cemetery, the following having acted as pall-bearers: Messrs. Jos. Chadwick, J. W. Cates, J. F. Stanland, G. B. M. Hudson, Z. E. Murrell and Jno. G. Smith. Many employes of the Coast Line shops were in attendance upon the services as a mark of respect to the deceased.

Improvements at "Airlie."

Mr. Pembroke Jones, who has been here several days having some improvements made at his beautiful country place, "Airlie," on the sound, expects to leave this evening for the North. It is understood that Mr. and Mrs. Jones will entertain a party of New York friends at their winter home in November. One of the improvements recently made at Mr. Jones' place is the installation of 70 electric lights in the residence. The wiring was done by an Atlanta firm and the fixtures were provided by the C. R., L. & P. Co. The current was turned on from the sub-station at Wrightsville yesterday.

Slashed a Companion.

Joseph Moore, colored, was sent to jail from the Mayor's court yesterday in default of $50 bond for his appearance before Judge Brown next week to answer the charge of an assault with a deadly weapon. Saturday evening in Hutaff's alley Moore became enraged at another negro named Dave Mitchell, and slashed him an "eight-stitch" gash on the fleshy part of the thigh.

Funeral of Mrs. Hicks.

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Hicks was conducted Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock from the residence of Mr. James T. Jacobs, No. 117 Castle street, Rev. C. B. Paul officiating. The interment was in Oakdale. The following were pall-bearers: Messrs. J. W. Hewett, Sam Bordeaux, J. P. Montgomery, James Allen, Wm. Rhodes and M. G. Tiencken.

Sold to Syrian Merchant.

Joe Simon, the Syrian merchant, yesterday purchased from S. & B. Solomon the entire stock of goods of the Fishblate Clothing Company. J. M. Solky & Co. expect to move into the Fishblate store on October 26th.

THE COUNTY SCHOOLS

Regular Monthly Meeting of the Board of Education Held Yesterday Afternoon.

ELECTION OF THIRD MEMBER.

Matter Deferred Until Subsequent Meeting—Successor to Prof. Bain, Vocal Instructor—Opening of Institutions—Meeting of Teachers.

The regular monthly meeting of the County Board of Education was held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the office of the Superintendent at the Court House. Those present were Mr. W. H. Sprunt, acting chairman; Capt. Donald MacRae, Superintendent Catlett and Treasurer Green. Much of the business of the session was routine. Capt. Donald MacRae, who was reappointed a member of the Board by the last Legislature and who had not previously had an opportunity of qualifying, took the required oath and entered upon his new duties.

It was expected that the election of a third member of the Board, vice Col. W. A. Johnson, who is now a resident of New York, would take place, but it was decided to defer the matter until a special meeting which it is understood will be held very soon. A number of gentlemen are prominently spoken of in connection with the place. It is understood that a member from the country will be elected.

The matter of the election of a successor to the late Prof. D. M. Bain, teacher of vocal music in the schools, was suggested. Superintendent Catlett said that he was in correspondence with several competent men, but until something definite is heard, it would be as well to defer that matter also. Prof. J. S. Leonard, of Statesville, is most prominently spoken of and the hope that his services may be secured, is expressed.

Superintendent Catlett stated that all the schools were open and that the attendance is much better this year than ever. In this connection it will be interesting to note that the newly-established school in District No. 12, on the Castle Haynes road, Miss Katherine Elmore teacher, has opened with about 25 pupils and much good is being done there.

Dr. David Batson was elected a committeeman in District No. 11, Scott's Hill, to fill a vacancy which has existed for some time.

Superintendent Catlett hopes to hold the first of a series of monthly teachers' meetings in Wilmington on Saturday, Oct. 31st.

Sad Death of an Infant.

Martha E., the infant daughter of Mr. J. G. Darden, of Raleigh, died Sunday at the residence of Capt. Thos. H. Hawkins, 805 Chesnut street. The child was only a month old and was preceded to the grave by its mother two or three weeks ago. The death is for that reason peculiarly sad, the little one having been brought to Wilmington from Raleigh with the hope that it could be raised after having been deprived, so young, of its mother. The funeral was conducted yesterday and the remains were laid to rest in Oakdale.

Schedule Change Not Pleasing.

Effective Sunday, the Southern Railway changed its schedule between Goldsboro and Greensboro so that the train which formerly connected at Selma with the southbound Atlantic Coast Line train, in the afternoon, passes a half hour before the A. C. L. train arrives. The change is not at all pleasing to Wilson, Weldon, Tarboro and other Eastern Carolina points and causes a long wait at Selma. A vigorous kick will probably be registered.

Black Patti Troubadours.

The sale of seats for the engagement of the world-famous Black Patti Troubadours opened yesterday morning at Plummer's and already a number of reservations have been made. Press notices from other cities in which the show has appeared this season are very flattering. As usual, one-half of the downstairs is reserved for whites at 75c and $1—regular prices.

In Carnival Attire.

Six thousand red, white and blue streamers were yesterday strung overhead in the carnival district of the city, from Chesnut to Orange street, on Front, and on Market, from Front to Third street. On the guy wires of the trolley system were also displayed lithographed hangers, giving the dates and other information about next week's street fair.

Negro Employed Counsel.

Robert Norris, the negro who Saturday night was too persistent in his endeavor to borrow a quarter from Mr. W. B. Duke, whom he mistook for another man, appeared in the police court yesterday with his counsel, Herbert McClammy, Esq., and had his case continued until to-day.

Catch of Fine Mullets.

Mr. James Walton made a big haul of fine mullets in front of the Carolina Yacht Club at Wrightsville yesterday. There were 3,000 bunches in the haul and the fish are the largest of the season. Some of them are over two feet in length.

— Capt. R. M. Capps, the popular county jailor, leaves this morning for Seven Springs with the hope that the change of climate and the properties of the water will improve his health which has been very poor for some time.

FIRE INSURANCE AGENTS.

Annual Meeting of North Carolina Underwriters' Association in Raleigh During Fair Week.

Secretary and Treasurer J. VanB. Metts, of this city, is mailing official notices to all members of the North Carolina Fire Underwriters Association informing them of the annual meeting of that organization to be held in Raleigh on Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 20 21st. Mr. W. J. Griswold, of Durham, is president of the Association and nearly, if not quite all, the leading fire insurance agents in the State are members of the body. The 1903 meeting promises to be well attended and fruitful of much good to the members. The letter of Mr. Metts is as follows:

"Annual meeting of North Carolina Fire Underwriters Association, Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 20-21, 1903.

"Wilmington, N. C., Oct. 10, 1903.

"DEAR SIR—You will kindly note the date and place of meeting of your Association, as indicated above. Your Executive Committee have deemed the time and place most opportune, as the annual State Fair will be in progress at this time, and the railroads have granted the usual low rate for round trip tickets.

"The business of the Association will be so arranged to allow ample time to participate in the benefits and pleasures to be derived from your State Fair. The preliminary meeting of the Association will take place on the afternoon of the 20th inst. At that time satisfactory hours will be arranged for the further sessions.

"Your officers count themselves most fortunate in being able to announce to you that our distinguished Insurance Commissioner, Hon. James R. Young, will address the Association at this meeting. We regret to say that the agents of the State have not received the full benefit this Association is prepared to secure to them, on account of the lack of interest and small attendance at previous meetings. The companies are well organized to protect their interests, and we should be equally as well prepared to meet the problems that are continually arising and confronting us. The agents of this State lose considerable legitimate business and commissions for lack of organization to protect the same.

"Your presence at this annual meeting is earnestly solicited.

"By order of the Executive Committee. J. V. B. METTS, "Secretary and Treasurer."

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

— Mr. Nathan O'Berry, of Goldsboro, arrived yesterday.

He will leave to-day for his new home and his family will follow him very soon.

TUESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 13.

THE TAMMANY TICKET.

Recent political events in New York city indicate a sweeping victory for Tammany in the municipal election next month. Charles F. Murphy, the new leader of the Tammany organization, has shown himself to be a politician of rare skill and shrewdness, for in securing the indorsement of Grout and Fornes by the regular Democratic city convention he pulled two of the largest and best plums out of the pudding of the Fusion party and plunged that organization into a condition of panic and demoralization. The move made by the Tammany leader on the political chessboard has resulted in exposing the fact that the Fusion party is not a non-partisan organization as has been claimed for it, but, on the contrary, is dominated completely by Senator Platt, Governor Odell and others prominently identified with the Republican machine.

When Messrs. Grout and Fornes, who are Democrats, accepted the indorsement of Tammany the Fusion movement was unmasked and Senator Platt demanded that their names be stricken from the Fusion ticket and this was done by the substitution of two other men who, it is claimed, are Democrats, thus showing quite clearly that Platt is the real leader of the Fusion movement, the purpose of which is to entrench the Republicans in control of New York city and make it easier for them to carry the State in the presidential election next year, as both political parties concede that the State will be doubtful and there will be a close and bitter contest for its electoral vote.

Several of the leading newspapers of the city that are supporting Mayor Low for re-election protested against the removal of Grout and Fornes from the Fusion ticket, because the former as comptroller and the latter as president of the board of aldermen had made an excellent record in their respective offices during the past two years and the reform element desired that they should be re-elected, as they had been the means of saving the taxpayers a great deal of money by an honest administration of the city's affairs. Senator Platt, however, incensed by the fact that he had been outgeneraled by the Tammany leader, ordered that their names be stricken from the ticket and the order was obeyed.

It is conceded by many Republicans that a serious mistake has been made, because Grout and Fornes were admittedly a tower of strength to the Fusion cause which has been sorely weakened by the action of Platt in driving them to the support of Tammany whose candidates they now are. The rank and file of Tammany Hall are delighted with the masterly manner in which their young and new leader has played the game of politics against such an expert as Platt. The braves are not only delighted but enthusiastic, because they feel that the battle is more than half won. The nomination of Grout and Fornes will attract many thousands of independent votes to the Tammany ticket, and the sporting element is so confident that Tammany will carry the city by a big majority that wagers of 10 to 7 are being made that McClellan will be elected mayor. The importance of the municipal election in New York is fully appreciated by Democrats all over the country, because they know that if the combine of Republicans and disgruntled Democrats, who pose as Fusionists and non-partisans, are defeated, the Democratic party will have much more than a fighting chance to carry the Empire State against Roosevelt next year, but that the party would have no chance whatever were such a Democratic stronghold as New York city to fall into the hands of the Republicans at this time. The Tammanyites and all regular Democrats understand the situation thoroughly and are working like beavers in every voting district in the great city. A sweeping victory for Tammany will enthuse the Democrats in the interior of the State and they will be ready and eager for the presidential contest next year.—New Orleans States.

A WAY OF FORECASTING A SURE-ENOUGH DEMOCRAT.

We'll bet the first watermelon of next season that the Charlotte Observer gives its earnest support to the Democratic candidate for President in 1904.—Wilmington Star.

The above is one of the STAR's felicitous ways of saying that we are to have a Democrat sure enough for the next candidate. The STAR favors Gorman for President over some others, and gives as a reason that he voted for Bryan both times. If Gorman is really the man, not many Democrats will stop to ask if he voted for Bryan; in fact, nobody cares whether he did or not. Certainly a number of the best Democrats in this State failed to vote for him in 1900.—Raleigh Times.

Yes, the STAR rather thinks Gorman the most available man, though Judge Parker is another "regular" who would make a strong candidate. But, whoever he may be, the nominee of the Democratic convention will receive the cordial support of the STAR, which, during the thirty-six years of its existence, has never flickered—not even when it had to place the name of Horace Greeley at its masthead. And we are proud of our record.

CURRENT COMMENT

—— The third party in the business of production is the consumer. If labor insists upon a wage so high and capital exacts a profit so large as to put a prohibitory or a too onerous price on the product, the consumer steps out of the market, the works are shut down, capital seeks paying investments elsewhere, which it can always find, and labor is idle and wageless.—Philadelphia Ledger, Ind.

—— The grape cure at Weisbaden has for a long time been an important feature of the autumn season at that famous health resort. The worth of the cure lies in the high per cent. of sugar in the fruit, grapes being from 24 to 50 per cent. sugar, with important elements of acid and water. The cure is especially recommended for anæmic patients and weak convalescents.

—— Eternal vigilance is the price shielding our Presidents from the murderous intentions of harebrained cranks. To our shame it must be admitted that our laws and institutions seem to encourage a pestiferous horde of such men. That episode at Washington yesterday was only the last of a discouragingly long series of similar affairs. Not even the czar needs a more argus-eyed guard than the President of the United States. — Providence Journal.

—— The truth is that the Vice Presidency is a superfluous office. There is no use in furnishing the President an adviser whom he doesn't want, and there is no department of government which appropriately devolves upon him. It would probably have been better to leave the presidential succession entirely with the cabinet. To make anything out of the Vice Presidency as now constituted is practically out of the question.—Kansas City Star, Rep.

—— When the Congress meets in extraordinary session it will have to determine under which flag, that of Blaine, McKinley, Roosevelt and Hay, or that of the Hanna standpatters, it will march to the polls next year. Action for or against the ratification of the Cuban reciprocity treaty will show precisely where the Republican party stands and will stand on the economic questions to which Blaine and McKinley gave vitality. Fortunately they are questions which cannot be ignored. They must be answered, and the answer of Congress to them will be the most sentient issue of the national contest of 1904.—Philadelphia Public Ledger, Ind.

—— Joseph Chamberlain's speech at Glasgow should convince every intelligent American that the time has come to insist that the wicked tariff fence we have erected along the Canadian border should be taken down. Free interchange of commodities between this country and Canada is as natural and would be as beneficial as similar interchange between any two of our own States. The Canadian people desire this as ardently as our own, and with the greatest of the colonies thus excluded from Mr. Chamberlain's proposed zollverein that project, with its discrimination against American products, would not be worth further discussion.—New York Herald, Ind.

Waited For a Yawn.

Two young fellows recently went out on a shooting expedition, driving to their destination in a trap. They had excellent sport, and toward nightfall they returned to where they had hobbled their horse and were proceeding to hitch up when they discovered that neither of them knew the way to do it. In about an hour they had most of the harness on; but, try as they would, they could not get the bit into the horse's mouth. At last one of them sat down in despair, and his companion said:

"Well, Tom, and what are you going to do now?"

"I'm going to wait till that brute yawns," was the reply. And they did. —St. Louis Republic.

Elephants' Love For Finery.

Strange as it may seem, the elephant is passionately fond of finery and delights to see himself decked out with gorgeous trappings. The native princes of India are very particular in choosing their state elephants and will give fabulous sums for an animal that exactly meets the somewhat fanciful standards they have erected. For these they have made cloths of silk so heavily embroidered with gold that two men are hardly able to lift them.—Pearson's Weekly.

Thackeray's Mustache.

In a note on Samuel Laurence's portrait of Thackeray—that representing the novelist's face in full—the Illustrated London News of Oct. 13, 1855, says:

"It is not, we must confess, altogether true to his present appearance, for it wants a recent and becoming addition to the upper lip in the shape of a black mustache that contrasts most admirably with a head of silver gray, but it is like the man and will be welcome to his many admirers."

The reference here to the mustache is interesting for the reason that every portrait of Thackeray, with one exception, represents him with a clean shaven upper lip, the exception being Maclise's pencil drawing of the famous "Titmarsh," which, however, belongs to a much earlier date—viz, about 1840—and in which there is just a suspicion of a mustache. Presumably the hirsute appendage of 1855 was merely a passing fancy, which the razor speedily disposed of.—Notes and Queries.

What He Was.

A man of letters—of poor physique—recently knocked a policeman down and is still at large to tell the tale. It was on the bank of the upper Thames, where a notice bids "Pedestrians to enter the towing path by the roadway." The man of letters, however, knew the short cut and took it, running into a huge Berkshire constable. "See that notice board?" remarked the constable, blocking the narrow path. The man of letters looked, considered, and replied, "But you see I'm not a pedestrian." The constable considered him from his hat to his boots and back again. "Why, what are you then?" he asked. "I'm a Congregationalist," said the man of letters. The constable dropped.—London Chronicle.

The Boys In Gray.

A question often asked, according to the United Service, is why the army cadets at West Point wear a gray uniform, while the uniform of the army is blue. The origin of the distinction dates back to the war of 1812-14, when the commissary general of the army could not procure the blue cloth required for General Winfield Scott's brigade, and so they were clad in gray. So distinguished was the conduct of that brigade at Lundy's Lane and Chippewa that when, after the war of 1812, a reorganization of West Point Military academy was made, out of compliment to General Scott and his brigade the uniform of the corps of cadets was changed from blue to gray.

TO PREVENT SWARMING.

A Simple Plan Practiced by Minnesota Bee Keepers.

A plan to prevent swarming, practiced by the bee keepers in this locality, seems to be exceedingly simple and successful, and I give it as follows, says a Minnesota correspondent of the American Bee Journal:

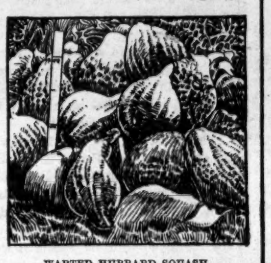
The hive in general use is the ordinary eight frame. As soon as the bees appear to be crowded, or show disposition to throw off a swarm, a hive filled with combs or foundation is placed on the old stand. Two frames of brood and the queen are removed from the old hive and placed in the center of the new. If any queen cells are discovered on the combs, they are destroyed. A queen excluder is placed over the new hive, and the old one, after the combs have been carefully inspected and royal cells destroyed, is placed on top. All ingress and exit from the old hive are down and through the new one, which the bees will immediately fill with honey and brood. As soon as the brood is hatched from the old combs, there being no further eggs laid, the bees clean out and fill with honey.

The process of placing new hives under old ones continues all season, in many cases as many as four or five hives being stacked one above the other, the queen excluder being always kept next to the parent colony. If this plan is followed, there is little or no trouble about swarming, and less about queenless colonies. This, of course, refers to the production of extracted honey, but it certainly produces a strain of bees that are little inclined to swarm.

Selected Varieties of Squash.

Early Prolific Marrow.—The earliest variety of squash of any market value. Vines strong and productive. Fruit medium in size; color orange red; quality fair. A good fall variety, selling well in the markets until the later and better varieties appear.

Essex Hybrid.—Shape similar to the Turban. Shell hard; color light yellow. Flesh thick, dry and excellent quality. Quite productive. A desirable fall and early winter variety.



WARTED HUBBARD SQUASH.

Warren.—Very similar to the Essex Hybrid except in outer appearance, the shell being warty and deep orange in color.

Hubbard.—The leading sort for winter use. Shell hard, making it a fine keeper and shipper. Flesh dry and fine in quality.—F. W. Rane, New Hampshire.

How to Cure Alfalfa.

The leaves of alfalfa contain nearly four times as much protein as the stems. Every effort, then, should be made to cure the alfalfa in such a way as to save all the leaves possible. When alfalfa has made a slow growth and at the time of cutting the ground and weather are dry there is no difficulty in curing. Often under these conditions it is safe to rake within a few hours after mowing and stack a few hours after the alfalfa has been put in the windrows. When alfalfa has made a rapid growth and is rank and succulent and the weather and ground are damp the problem of curing is a difficult one. It is easy to dry the leaves, but the stems will contain much moisture after the leaves are too dry. Alfalfa hay should become so dry before stacking that when a handful of stems are twisted together no water can be squeezed out.

There is usually no difficulty in curing any but the first crop. When the conditions for curing the first crop are unfavorable we have usually found the most practicable methods to be to cut the alfalfa early in the morning after the dew is off, allow it to barely wilt in the swath, then rake and before night put in narrow, tall cocks. After the dew is off the next morning and the surface of the ground has become dry we open these cocks carefully so as not to shatter off the leaves. If the weather is favorable the hay may be stacked in the afternoon; if not, we recock carefully and repeat treatment until the hay is properly cured.—H. M. Cottrell, Kansas.

Loss of Phosphoric Acid.

Apparently one of the hardest things for a stockman to understand is that where live animals are sold from the farm the great manurial drain is in phosphoric acid. The living ox is mostly water. In each 1,000 pounds of his weight there will be found on the average 600 pounds of water, 27 of nitrogen, 2 only of potash, 21 of lime and 19 of phosphoric acid. What becomes of the potash which the ox consumes in his food? It is almost entirely sent out of the system in the liquid manures. On farms where clover is grown far more nitrogen is brought to the farm than the ox carries away. Therefore the chief drain upon such farms is in lime and phosphoric acid.—Cor. Rural New Yorker.

PREMATURE AGE.

Is brought on by a failing body, as many Wilmington readers know

Failure to provide for the welfare of the body causes the body to fail, and brings on premature age. Men of 35 who are afflicted with kidney troubles walk about like men of 75. It's easy to cure it, and to regain the elastic step that you should have. A well known Wilmington man tells how.

J. A. White, electrician for the Coast Line Railroad, at Rocky Mount, residing at 206 North Sixth street, says: "I have had great trouble with my back, right across the loins, and when I sat still for a while I hardly knew how to move and when I did you would think I was seventy-five years old. There were pains all over me and I could not tell where they were to strike me. I used liniments and lots of remedies but nothing did me any permanent good until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Bellamy's drug store and used them. They helped me in a very short time and seemed almost to oil up my joints; in fact, I have not had the pains since I used them."

STEVENSON.

So Limp He Looked as Though Just Fished From the Sea.

He was tall, thin, spare—indeed, he struck me as almost fantastically spare. I remember thinking that the station draft caught him like a torn leaf flowing at the end of a branch. His clothes hung about him as the clothes of a convalescent who has lost bulk and weight after long fever. He had on a jacket of brown velveteen—I cannot swear to the color, but that detail always comes back in the recalled picture—a flannel shirt, with a loose necktie bundled into a sailor's knot, somewhat fantastical trousers, though no doubt this effect was due in part to their limp amplitude about what seemed rather the thin green poles familiar in dahlia pots than the legs of a human creature. He wore a straw hat that in its rear rim suggested forgetfulness on the part of its wearer, who had apparently, in sleep or heedlessness, treated it as a cloth cap. These, however, were details in themselves trivial and were not consciously noted till later. The long, narrow face, then almost sallow, with somewhat long, loose hair, that draggled from beneath the yellow straw hat well over the ears, along the dusky hollows of temple and cheek, was what immediately attracted attention. But the extraordinariness of the impression was of a man who had just been rescued from the sea or a river. Except for the fact that his clothes did not drip, that the long black locks hung limp, but not moist, and that the short velveteen jacket was disreputable, but not damp, this impression of a man just come or taken from the water was overwhelming.—William Sharp in Pall Mall Magazine.

Careful of the Thermometer.

In a certain village not very long ago a benevolent doctor offered to give a thermometer to every cottage, carefully explaining its use. Soon after their arrival a district visitor entered one house where the new thermometer hung proudly in the middle of the room dangling at the end of a string. The visitor complimented the owner upon it and inquired if she remembered the instructions.

"Aye, that I do," was the reply. "I 'angs un there and I watches un until 'e gets above 60."

"Quite right, Mrs. ——," said the lady, much pleased that the directions given had taken root. "And what do you do when it gets above 60?"

"Why, then," was the unlooked for answer, "I takes un down from the nail and puts un out in the garden and cools un down a bit!"—London Tit-Bits.

Cloves.

"Cloves," said a physician, "make an excellent and handy remedy for nausea, for the headache due to train rides and for slight attacks of seasickness. I went abroad last year, and on the boat the first day out I began to feel the approaches of seasickness. I took a clove every hour all the rest of the day, and by midnight the attack had left me, and it did not return again. My wife is much given to indigestion, particularly when she eats pastry, but experience has taught her that she may now eat pastry with impunity provided that she swallows a clove now and then for several hours after the meal."

They Hadn't Run, But—

A young couple rushed into the city hall the other day and breathlessly announced that they wished to get married.

The alderman eyed the nervous bridegroom elect and said severely, "I'm afraid this is a runaway match."

"Well, your honor, I can't exactly say we run, but we walked pretty smart," was the prompt reply. — New York News.

COTTON MARKETS.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star

NEW YORK, October 12.—The cotton market opened easy at unchanged prices to a decline of six points under liquidation following disappointing cables, and the absence of killing frosts in the belt over Sunday. But receipts for the day promised to run slightly under those of last year and the weather on the whole was considered against the crop, it being too cold, with rains reported from various sections, and shortly after the call covering brought about an advance to within a point or two of yesterday's finals. The unsettled conditions in Wall street and the threatening aspect of the far Eastern situation were against purchases, however, and the steadier tone was soon lost, prices declining point by point under a moderate selling movement until they had reached a level net nlue to eleven points lower. When toward the end of the session there was considerable covering, said to originate with certain heavy sellers, but the market recovered all its losses, closing steady net two points lower to two points higher. Sales 200,000 bales. A factor in the late advances was the light estimate for to-morrow's receipts at leading points, heavy exports including about 15,000 bales from New York and forecasts calling for continued rains and frosts in the cotton belt, the colder weather being indicated for western Texas. Port receipts for the day turned out only 49,646 bales, against 56,374 last year. Some October notices were reported to be in circulation but were not in sufficient volume to prove a market influence. Private crop advices continued of a bullish average.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., July 28, 1898.—DR. C. J. MOFFETT—My Dear Sir: Justice to you demands that I should give you my experience with your excellent medicine, TEETHINA. Our little girl, just thirteen months old, has had much trouble teething. Every remedy was exhausted in the shape of prescriptions from family physicians. Her bowels continued to pass off pure blood and burning fever continued for days at a time. Her life was almost despaired of. Her mother determined to try TEETHINA, and in a day or two there was a great change—now life had returned—the bowels were regular, and thanks to TEETHINA, the little babe is now doing well. Yours, etc., D. W. McIVER, Editor and Proprietor Tuskegee (Ala.) News.

FARM AND GARDEN

THE DAIRY BARN.

Some Suggestions For Securing Thoroughly Sanitary Conditions.

Two things almost universally lacking or at least inadequately supplied in dairy barns are light and pure air. These are easily obtained, and, although absolutely essential to the best health of the herd and the economic production of clean milk, they are rarely appreciated. The second cut shows a dairy barn containing enough windows. These are in striking contrast with others which have been printed and seen throughout the state. If a barn is already built and has insufficient light more windows can easily be provided. There should be from three-fourths to one and a half square feet of glass for every linear foot of outside wall in a dairy barn.

KING SYSTEM OF VENTILATION.

Many barns are not provided with any system of ventilation whatever, as but few dairymen realize that pure air is just as essential to the economic production of untainted milk as is the feed a cow consumes. Digestion and assimilation, like the burning of coal in a stove, are processes of combustion. The stove may be filled with coal, but if the drafts are kept tightly closed the coal will not burn, as sufficient oxygen is not provided. Neither can a cow's feed be properly digested and assimilated without an abundance of oxygen, and unless this is supplied a great waste of food as well as impaired health of the cow will result.

Much has been said about the number of cubic feet of air space that should be allowed for a cow, but this is of little consequence in comparison with the more important question of ventilation or change of air. In order not to get a greater degree of impurity in the air than is permissible with good results each cow should be supplied with 3,540 cubic feet of air per hour. The size of the ventilating flues to be provided will depend upon the number of cows in the stable. About four square feet is a good size for a ventilating flue, and if so constructed as to cause the air to travel 300 feet a minute this will furnish ventilation for twenty cows. Two flues this size would be sufficient for forty cows, and five would be required for 100 cows.

To be sanitary a dairy barn should be whitewashed at least once a year. An interior with a few boards laid overhead at irregular intervals, with hay hanging through, and with the sides in no better condition cannot be properly whitewashed. The ceiling should be tight, excluding all dust and chaff from above, and sides smooth, thus affording a firm surface to which the whitewash can cling.

It is not necessary to ceil the barn with surfaced lumber—in fact, the whitewash will adhere better if the surface is not too smooth. The boards must, however, be reasonably clean before the whitewash is applied; otherwise it will be of little use, for it will soon shell off with the filth, and, besides this, filth simply covered is not removed.

A cement floor is the most sanitary for a cow stable, and when put down it should be left rough under the float to prevent the cows from slipping. An objection often made to cement floors is that they are cold in winter, but as the temperature in a dairy barn should never get below 40 degrees F. this objection is largely overcome if the cows are properly bedded. When a plank floor is used it must be renewed as fast as it wears or rots out.—W. J. Fraser, Illinois Experiment Station.

A COMPARATIVELY CHEAP DAIRY BARN.

A Good All Around Tomato.

One of the very best all around tomatoes is the Dwarf Champion. It is a smooth, handsome, fairly early and productive kind, but its great merit from the busy farmer's point of view is that it makes a stout, compact vine, holding up the fruit and keeping it sound and clean without help of a mulch or trellis. It begins shortly after the earliest kinds and ripens most of its fruit before frost.

WHERE OLD HATS GO.

Clerk Tells of Unique Scheme For Making Cigar Money.

"Needn't send that old hat home," said the customer as he placed the newly purchased derby on his head. "It's too shiny around the edges, and it would just take up room in the closet."

The customer walked out of the store and the clerk turned to a friend.

"That means cigar money for me," he said, "and I smoke good cigars at that. In most stores it wouldn't do me very much good, as all the discarded hats are given to the drivers of the delivery wagons. But here the house allows the clerks to have the hats, and as result we make a little extra money. About once a week the bushelman comes around to the store looking for old hats, and when I give him all I have collected he pays on an average of 15 cents apiece for them.

"After the bushelman has made his rounds he takes the hats to a shop on South street, and there they are taken apart. The silk ribbons and bands and sweatbands are removed and the hat given a thorough cleaning and new material and trimmings put on. When it is all fixed up it is extremely difficult to tell it from a new hat, and in many cases it will sell for as high as $2. When you can buy a hat for 15 cents, clean it for about 5 cents, put 25 cents' worth of leather and ribbon on it and sell it for a dollar or more, you see where the profit comes in, don't you?"—Philadelphia Press.

The "Show" and the Showy People.

"Society" in England is divided into two classes—show people and showy people. To the first "society" belongs; the second are anxious to belong to "society."

Of the former there are comparatively few. It is a feature of the times that there are very many of the latter.

The show people are those who, because of their position, their popularity or their abilities, have attained prominence and are more or less associated together in the social life of their period.

The showy people, without the position, the popularity or the abilities, strive to become prominent by display, extravagance, eccentricities or self advertisement. Their carriages are painted in the most glaring color; they are dressed expensively even on ordinary occasions; they are tireless and tiresome in their endeavors to appear to be associated with "society;" their life may be described as one of continuous deceit and disappointment, and they take offense on the least provocation and are implacable in their vindictiveness.—London Truth.

The Actor's Mouth.

The actor's mouth is essentially facile and not infrequently it exhibits a tendency to turn to one side or the other. This is due, in part, to its being constantly used to express emotion and also to the peculiar but no less well recognized fact that when the mouth is somewhat crooked a greater effect can be produced than when it is opened quite straight. Example after example could be cited, but for obvious reasons names may not be mentioned. At one time it was considered the mark of the low comedian, for nearly every one of them had a mouth twisted either to the right or left as the result of "mugging." Some of the most serious actors—even those with a reputation for beauty—could, however, be pointed to as possessing the same characteristic, which has also been observed with not a few opera singers of the first rank.—London Tatler.

Sex Peculiarities.

A man will run as fast as he can to cross a railroad track in front of a train. Then he will watch it till it goes out of sight. Then he will walk leisurely away. He seems to be all right and probably is. That is a man.

A woman in a street car will open a satchel and take out a purse, take out a dime and close the purse, open the satchel, put in the purse, close the satchel and lock both ends. Then she will give the dime to the conductor, who will give her a nickel back. Then she will open the satchel and take out the purse, put in the nickel, close the purse, open the satchel and put in the purse, close the satchel and lock both ends. Then she will feel for the buckle at the back of her belt.—Kansas City Journal.

Wagner and Thirteen.

In the life of Richard Wagner the number thirteen played a curious part. He was born in 1813, the numerals of which, added together, are equal to thirteen, and he received a name the letters of which when added to those of his family name are also equal to thirteen. Moreover, he finished "Tannhauser" on April 13, 1860, and it was performed for the first time on March 13, 1861. Twenty-two years later he died, and again the mystical number was dominant, for he passed away on Feb. 13, 1883.

TUESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 13.

ARGUMENTS IN THE HAYWOOD-SKINNER CASE.

Two Speeches and Part of a Third Made Yesterday — Judge's Charge Will Probably Come Wednesday

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 12.—Two arguments and part of a third were made to-day in the Haywood-Skinner case, and the argument will continue to-morrow, perhaps reaching into Wednesday unless there is a night session. The judge's charge will probably come Wednesday.

Senator Herbert E. Norris opened for the State this morning and in his argument argued that Skinner had struck Haywood, that after the first shot he had reached for his pistol and that as he turned to defend himself, Haywood had fired the fatal second shot. He reviewed the evidence of witnesses for the defence and upon this based his theory.

Colonel S. G. Bryan, in his argument for Haywood, claimed self-defence and exhibited Skinner's clothes to the jury. He held that the first shot was fatal and that Haywood shot only to save his life.

Senator Donnell Gilliam for the State had not concluded when court adjourned to-night. He has taken up the evidence of Simms, the leading defence witness, and declares it substantially the theory of the State. He is reviewing every point and his argument is that Haywood showed malice and deliberation. It is a strong one for the State. The final speeches will be from Captain W. H. Day for defence, Solicitor Daniel for the State and Colonel T. M. Argo for the defence.

U. S. SHIPBUILDING COMPANY.

Meeting of Stockholders Called for October 21st—The Referee's Hearing Has Been Postponed.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—It was announced to-day that a meeting of the stockholders of the United States Shipbuilding Company has been called for October 21st in Jersey City. This meeting is called, it was announced, for the purpose of considering a proposal to assess the stock of the company.

The only parties having authority for calling a special stockholders' meeting to take any official action are the receiver and the board of directors. The receiver, it was said, had not called the meeting.

The referees' hearing in the receiver's investigation of the affairs of the company will not go on to-morrow. Attorney Guthrie, who is representing Chas. M. Schwab at the inquiry, has not yet fully recovered from the injuries received while riding a few days ago, and at a conference between the counsel in the case a postponement until Wednesday was decided upon. Announcement was also made that Mr. Guthrie had agreed to produce Mr. Schwab as a witness whenever required without the necessity of serving a process directing him to attend.

INSTANTLY KILLED

Rev. E. B. Hawley, of Lakeview, Moore County, N. C.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The fierce storm which for several days has been raging along the North Atlantic coast, has seriously interfered with shipping, and to-day only four of the ocean liners have arrived. All reported hurricanes and mountainous seas. The Monterey, of the Ward Line, and the Jefferson, of the Old Dominion Line, came in from the South. The latter craft was terribly battered by the storm, and when boarded by a high wave on Saturday, Richard McLane, the lookout, was seriously injured, and by the heavy rolling of the Jefferson in an effort to free herself of the deluge that suddenly fell on her forecastle, the Rev. E. B. Hawley, a clergyman of Lakeview, Moore county, N. C., one of the passengers, was thrown across the cabin and instantly killed. His body was brought to port. McLane was taken to the hospital.

TROLLEY CAR ACCIDENT.

A Number of People Injured, Including Many Women—None Fatally.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

KNOXVILLE, TENN., Oct. 12.—An electric motor car and trailer, heavy loaded with passengers en route to the circus grounds here this afternoon, was lost control of by the motorman and rapidly descended the Gay street hill between Vine and Jackson, one of the steepest inclines in the city. A number of passengers were injured, including many women. They fell and jumped from the cars in their rapid flight. None is believed to be fatally hurt.

COMPTROLLER GRANT.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Comptroller Edward M. Grout announced to-day his intention to support George B. McClellan, the Democratic candidate for mayor, in opposition to the re-election of Mayor Low. In answer to a question, after he had finished his speech of acceptance of the Democratic nomination for comptroller, Mr. Grout said:

"I will support Mr. McClellan with every power that I have."

DECLARATION OF WAR IS EXPECTED.

Relations Between Japan and Russia Believed to Have Reached a Crisis.

NOT CREDITED IN LONDON.

But a Feeling of Disquiet at the Situation in the Far East Prevails—Reported Movements of Hostile Fleets and of Troops in Corea.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

BERLIN, Oct. 12.—A dispatch from Shanghai to the Frankfurter Zeitung states that news has reached there from Che Foo to the effect that the Japanese have occupied Ma-San-Pho, and that an official declaration of war is expected. The relations between Japan and Russia have reached a crisis, according to the official view here. The exact nature of the diplomatic exchanges between the two governments that brought out the present tensity appear to be unknown at the legations of the two countries here or at the German legations at St. Petersburg and Tokio, although it is understood that Great Britain is privy to Japan's movement.

Anxiety in London.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Deprecating the rumors of a Japanese ultimatum to Russia, Baron Hayashai, the Japanese minister to Great Britain, in an interview to-day said he had no information of such a character, adding that if Japan had taken action "the Anglo-Japanese treaty would have necessitated my being immediately notified," so that he might inform the British government.

In spite of the re-assuring statements of the Foreign Office and Baron Hayashi, the frequent reiteration that hostilities between Russia and Japan are imminent, the mysterious movements of the Russian and Japanese fleets, and the excited state of public opinion in Japan are beginning to cause disquiet in Great Britain which by reason of her alliance with Japan is so intimately concerned in any action which the latter may take in the far East. Only the most sanguine persons believe that in the event of hostilities they could be kept within the limits which would free Great Britain from her obligation to support her Japanese ally. Even Baron Hayashi, who heretofore has ridiculed all suggestion of war, is not so optimistic to-day. Indirectly he admits the possibility of war, by expressing the hope that in the event of a crisis Japan will have the active sympathy of her ally, Great Britain.

While refusing to credit the reports of an ultimatum having been delivered, Baron Hayashi admitted that the diplomatic situation had changed since October 8th, and that developments may have arisen from the failure of the Russians to fulfill their engagement to evacuate Manchuria on that date. He, however, had heard nothing from his government on the subject.

Che Foo, the source of the latest alarming news, is several hundred miles from Ma-San-Pho, so the reports of Japanese military movements there are likely to be a repetition of similar stories circulated last week, which later accounts minimized.

Movements of Fleets.

ST. PETERSBURG, October 12.—Significance is attached here to the fact that the Official Messenger and the Journal de St. Petersbourg print the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger's dispatch relating to the movement of the Russian fleet and the possible coincident landing of Russian and Japanese troops in different parts of Corea. Several newspapers publish reviews of Japan's military and naval strength.

PARIS, Oct. 12.—Speaking of the Russo-Japanese situation to-day, M. Flourens, the former foreign minister of France said:

"Japan must have another power behind her or else she will not take the offensive."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Aside from extensive military preparations by both nations the Japanese legation here is not advised that either Russia or Japan has as yet, committed any act of war. The Japanese minister is being kept constantly advised by cablegrams from Tokio of the situation and realizing its gravity he is moving with great caution. The negotiations between Russia and Japan, according to his advices, are still in progress and there is hope of a diplomatic settlement of the questions at issue.

The representatives of this government in the capitals of Russia, Japan and China have not advised the State Department regarding recent developments and rumors of war over Manchuria. As has often been pointed out, the United States has no cause of protest because Russia has failed to keep her pledges that she would evacuate Manchuria on October 8th. The interest of the United States in Manchuria is covered by the recent treaty between China and this country. If Manchuria becomes annexed to Russia or continues under Russian control, the United States will insist that the provisions of the treaty be carried out, especially as Russia assented to its provisions being signed.

PORT SAID, EGYPT, Oct. 12.—The Russian battleship Czarevitch and the Russian armored cruiser Ryan arrived here to-day bound for Chinese waters. The Czarevitch proceeded to-day.

Manchurian Convention.

YOKOHAMA, Oct. 12.—The announcement of M. Lessar, the Russian minister to China, that the Manchurian convention between Russia and China has elapsed is received here with ridicule.

Dispatches from Chee-foo report that a Russian warship and a transport with five hundred troops left Port Arthur October, 4th, for Corea. Sixty Japanese civilians left Port Arthur, October 10th, for Nagasaki. The Russian forces at New Chwang are reported to have been increased.

General Kodama, the Japanese home minister, has been appointed chief assistant to the military staff. The premier will assume General Kodama's portfolio. The premier and the ministers for war, navy and foreign affairs had a simultaneous audience of the Emperor to day.

Baron von Rosen, the Russian minister, and Baron Komura, the Japanese foreign minister, have not yet had a conference.

LONDON, October 13.—The peculiar official explanation of the postponement of the Czar's visit to Rome, "owing to circumstances over which he has no control," is interpreted in some quarters to mean that the threatening outlook in far Eastern affairs calls for the Emperor's presence in Russia.

There is no confirmation of the alarmist rumors. At the Japanese legation last night no news had been received of the reported ultimatum.

The Tokio correspondent of the Times telegraphs that the appointment of General Kodama as chief assistant to the military staff, is regarded with universal satisfaction at this critical period.

A dispatch from Moscow to the Times, dated October 10th, states that a large force of Russian troops under orders for the far East are now on their way thither by rail from Kharkoff.

ARGUMENTS TO JURY IN THE TILLMAN TRIAL.

Three Speeches for the State and Two for Defence---Large Crowd of Spectators Many Ladies Were Present.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

LEXINGTON, S. C., Oct. 12.—Arguments to the jury in the trial of J. H. Tillman were begun with the convening of court to-day, three attorneys for the State and two for the defence addressing the jury during the seven hours court was in session. Four attorneys, two on a side, are to be heard to-mor row. A larger crowd of spectators was in attendance to-day than there has been at any one time for several days past, and there was a greater number of ladies in attendance. Mrs. J. H. Tillman and the mother of the defendant were present, as they have been almost continuously from the beginning of the trial, and were attentive listeners to the addresses by counsel to the jury.

Solicitor Thurmond opened the argument for the State, both sides having submitted to the court their requests for instructions to the jury.

Referring to the editorials in the State he said they were before the jury to show feelings. He referred to the liberty of the press. The solicitor devoted himself largely to a review and summing up of the evidence adduced by the prosecution, concerning threats, next taking up and comparing the testimony of witnesses on the two sides relative to the shooting with a view to showing that Mr. Gonzales was unarmed and sought to avoid a difficulty when he met the defendant on the day of the shooting.

The solicitor was followed by Mr. Rembert, of counsel for defence, who said among other things that the defence did not concede that N. G. Gonzales was unarmed at the time he was shot. Stress was laid by counsel upon the charges made by Mr. Gonzales against the defendant, to show, as he stated, the influence they had on the defendant's mind when he met Mr. Gonzales January 15th.

Attorney William Elliott, Jr., followed, contending that Mr. Gonzales was in his right in discussing a man in public life, and asserted that Mr. Tillman had recourse to the libel law for redress. He said also that a number of the utterances contained in the editorials which have been read were extracts from other newspapers, and added that Mr. Gonzales had not mentioned the home life of the defendant.

Mr. Elliott said the dying declaration taken down in short hand had not been introduced because the stenographer taking it was Editor Gonzales' private stenographer.

Mr. Elliott made use of the statement made by the defendant that he had the "drop" on Gonzales.

Mr. George Johnstone began his speech to the jury in behalf of the defendant when court reconvened at 3 P. M., and spoke for two and a half hours. He contended that the liberty of the press did not give the right of denunciation. He reviewed the testimony leading up to the shooting and insisted that the two statements testified to as the dying declarations of Editor Gonzales were at variance and that the variance was due to the morphine administered to him after he was shot. Mr. Johnstone had the sheriff stand before the jury with Mr. Gonzales' overcoat on, and pointing to the bullet hole claimed it supported the defendant's version of the shooting.

Mr. Asbill, counsel for the State, was the last to address the jury, but he had not fairly begun when the hour of adjournment arrived. He said it was five months after the last editorial was written concerning Mr. Tillman that the shooting occurred and contended that the editorials must be eliminated from consideration.

GREENSBORO REUNION.

Several Thousand Visitors in the City. Address of Welcome by Gov. Aycock.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 12.—The reunion of North Carolinians residing in other States began at Greensboro to-day and will be concluded to-morrow. The occasion has attracted several thousand visitors to that city, nearly every State in the Union being represented.

Ex-U. S. Senator Matt W. Ransom is presiding as master of ceremonies. He was introduced this morning in an address by Dr. Chas. D. McIver, president of the State Normal College. The address of welcome on behalf of the State was delivered by Chas. B. Aycock, Governor of North Carolina, and the address of welcome in behalf of Greensboro was delivered by Col. Jas. T. Morehead. The city is profusely decorated with bunting and flags.

REV. HARRY M'KNIGHT.

Warrant Issued for His Arrest, Charging Grand Larceny.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEWPORT NEWS, VA., Oct. 12.—A warrant was issued here to-day for the Rev. Harry McKnight, who represents himself to be the secretary of the National Newsboys' Association, charging him with grand larceny. McKnight has disappeared. He turned up here six weeks ago, rented a building and canvassed the city for funds for the establishment of a local branch of the National Newsboys' Home. After disposing of a number of tickets of admission to a "Wild West" show which he advertised extensively, McKnight according to the charge sworn out against him sold all the furniture in the building he had leased and fled with the proceeds of the sale. The owner of the furniture swore out the warrant for McKnight's arrest.

WHITES AND NEGROES.

Fight at Railroad Station Near Paducah, Ky.—White Man Fatally Injured.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

PADUCAH, KY., Oct. 12.—A battle occurred ten miles from this city, at Kevil, a small railroad station on the Illinois Central, last night between negroes and white youths. It originated over the negroes ordering the white people to remain off their part of the railroad platform. A dozen shots were fired and Tom Hall, a negro, was shot through the arm and a white man named Childress was shot over the heart and fatally injured. Hall is the only one arrested.

Barge Foundered Off Cape Henry and Went Down With the Crew—News of More Wrecks Expected from the Coast Near Hatteras.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NORFOLK, VA., Oct. 12.—The first news received from the Carolina coast since the beginning of the hurricane last night dispels the hope that the treacherous shoals between Currituck and Hatteras have not claimed their quota of craft.

Two vessels are known to have been lost on that stretch of the coast and further reports are expected to bring news of more wrecks, as at this time three schooners are missing together with one barge. Two schooners and a barge in addition to those wrecked between Cape Henry and Dam Neck, were lost during Thursday and Friday. The crew of the schooners were saved, but the barge went down with all hands aboard.

The tug Buccaneer, Capt Joseph Lane, reports that the barge Oracle foundered off Cape Henry with Captain Cookson, her cook and three seamen, all white. The tug sailed from Baltimore, towing the Oracle, which was coal-laden. Off Hog Island the storm struck her on Thursday and the barge with her crew went down The tug could not approach the barge in the frightful sea running, and was forced to come in here for safety. She went to sea to day merely to comply with the insurance regulations.

Observer W. A. Drinkwater, of the Currituck station, reached Norfolk today by the inland route and reports the loss of the schooners Mabel Rose and J. W. Holden.

The Mabel Rose, owned by Messrs. T. C. Tilley, Joseph M. Clark and others, left this city Wednesday afternoon for New York with 405,000 feet of lumber from the Tunis Mills in Berkley, consigned to the Wiley, Harker & Camp Company of New York. She passed out the Capes Thursday and was caught in the storm Friday night off the eastern shore of Virginia. The vessel was blown down the coast and at 6 o'clock Saturday morning the Rose became waterlogged. Captain Walton, together with his crew, took to the fore-rigging and there remained until the boom broke, compelling their retreat. The eight men crawled under the after-quarter deck and there remained lashed all night. Between 4 and 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon the Rose struck the beach after having previously struck and been blown off again. The life savers tried to get a shot line to the vessel, but darkness prevailed and the attempt had to be abandoned until early Sunday morning. The life savers had seen the Rose about 2 P. M. Saturday with her crew in the rigging, but she was then two miles out at sea. At 4 A. M. Sunday the life savers succeeded in shooting a line across the wreck, and within eighteen minutes after the first man had been started ashore from the Rose all eight were on the beach in safety, though much fatigued from the suffering endured while lashed to the wreck from dark the night before.

The schooner Rose and her cargo were uninsured and the loss of the vessel was total. A large part of the lumber can be saved, and arrangements to this end were being made today. It is estimated that the cargo of lumber carried by the schooner Rose from Norfolk was worth more than $60,000.

The three-masted schooner J. B. Holden, of Suffolk, went ashore near False Cape, Va., and is a total loss. Her captain, W. O. Cranmer, of Suffolk, and her crew were taken off by the life-savers and are safe on the shore. The news of the casting away of the schooner and the saving of these aboard was received here this morning.

The ocean going tugs accustomed to stand off Cape Henry awaiting the arrival of Baltimore bound schooners were unable to stand the storm outside and came in here. They report that the schooners Isabella Gills, Mary Lee Patton and Jennie Thomas, bound from the south for Baltimore, are not accounted for. The wires to the coast are down and news cannot be had, but these tug men believe that there is grave reason to fear for the safety of the vessels.

Captain Thomas, commanding the schooner Henry S. Little, which came in to-day in distress, is reported in the marine district as saying that he saw three schooners in a very dangerous predicament and which seemed to be in danger of going on shore. She managed to keep clear of the coast and made this port. It is regarded as possible that the Gilla, Thomas and Patton may have made some port and the fact has not yet been reported.

Steamers Damaged.

NEW YORK, October 13.—Incoming steamers from European and coastwise ports to-day reported extremely severe weather during the last three days. Vessels arriving from the eastward suffered but little, coming along with the prevailing easterly gales, whereas steamers coming from the southward felt the full force of the tempest and suffered more or less damage from the tremendous seas which swept over them for seventy-four hours. Captains report the worst weather experienced on the coast in many years.

The steamer City of Savannah came into port with a heavy list, caused by her cargo shifting. She was compelled to proceed under reduced speed. Heavy seas broke over her bridge. The forward ventilators were swept away early in the storm, deadlights were smashed in and the water poured into the saloon. The City of Savannah carried in all fifty-four passengers.

The Ward Liner Niagara also received some damage to her rails and decks. The Anchor Line steamer Victoria from Mediterranean ports encountered violent east gales for three days, in which she lost one lifeboat and received other damage.

NORFOLK, VA., Oct. 12.—With sixty miles of North Carolina coast yet unheard from, grave fears are felt here of further disasters. The British steamer Domingo de Larranaga, Captain White, from Galveston to Manchester, reached port to-day, after a terrible experience off Hatteras, during which it was thought she would founder. Her entire rudder and gear is badly damaged and a survey will be held.

The following barges were towed into port from points off the capes today: No. 19, No. 17, No. 1. The Gloucester of the Merchants and Miners' Line came in fifteen hours late.

Charles H. Voorhies, aged 58, a retired capitalist and banker, died suddenly in convulsions yesterday at Lexington, Ky. He was known all over the South.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Arthur Warren, a young man living in the suburb of Berwin, twelve miles from Chicago, had a narrow escape from lynching to-night and but for the efforts of policemen it is possible that he would have been hanged to a telegraph pole. Warren was accused of assaulting an eight-year old girl. Acts of this kind have occurred several times at Berwin within the last fortnight, and the crowd that pursued Warren was highly exasperated.
